FOREWORD

Periodicals in raised print or in talking book form represent an additional source of reading material for blind persons, supplementary to the books and other printed or recorded matter provided by the federal government through the Library of Congress. This compilation, frequently revised, is a guide to the additional reading matter in braille, moon and recorded form. It also lists periodicals of special information on schools, agencies and alumni associations. Twenty-nine of these latter are published in the United States and four in Canada.

There are at present one-hundred and twenty braille periodicals in the United States and eight in Canada. Of those published in the United States, thirty-six are devoted to specific subjects or furnish current news and professional material of interest to blind persons or to those who work with blind people. Forty-two are religious publications; thirty-eight are special organs for schools, alumni groups and agencies; nine are reprints of current events designed for use by elementary and high school students. Five braille periodicals are devoted to deaf-blind persons, one of which is published in Canada.

There are two publications for readers who prefer moon type. Forty periodicals are available in recorded form; twenty-two appear on disc and eighteen on tape.

The wide circulation of the periodicals published in this country for blind persons and on work with blind persons is an indication of their value to the field. The American Foundation for the Blind presents this list as an aid in the selection of the type of publication wanted.
